Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. has presented an innovation in antiquities and numismatics for some time now. The system is simple. When you want an antiquity or coin in the sale, just bid the estimated price by phone or mail. We will send you the antiquity or coin immediately. No waiting for the closing of the sale. Any and all antiquities or coins not sold before the closing date will be sent to the highest bidder on July 11, 1995.

EXAMPLE—You bid estimate on an item valued at $100.00 and if your bid is the 1st to reach us, you will receive the item immediately. If on the other hand, you bid $75.00 on the same item and are still the high bidder at the end of the sale, the item will be mailed to you on the closing date, July 11, 1995.

If you are ever in the area, stop in and see us! Of course, it's best to call first.

Xusro II was the most ambitious and warlike of the Sassanid monarchs. He attacked the Byzantine Empire, capturing Jerusalem, from which he carried away the "True Cross," and overran virtually all the Byzantine eastern provinces. In a long and brutal war, Heraclius ravaged the Sassanid Empire until Xusro II had to withdraw to his own kingdom. There Xusro II was overthrown by a coup and peace was made with the Byzantines, which included the return of the Cross, but both empires were left too weak and exhausted to oppose effectively the expansion of the new religion which had just appeared on the scene: Islam.

THE GOLDEN TRADE DINAR OF ETHIOPIA

One of the first trade coins was struck in Ethiopia around 1100 AD for use in trade with the Arabic and Jewish merchants in Yemen, just across the Red Sea in Asia. Following the demise of the Christian Axumite kingdom in Ethiopia, barter was the primary form of trade within the region, but some form of currency was necessary for dealing with the Yemenites. The coin which was produced to serve this purpose was an imitation of the contemporary Yemeni gold dinar of Ali bin Muhammad minted at Zabid, struck in pale gold. Two hundred years later the Venetian ducat became the standard gold trade coin for the area, and local imitations of this coinage were also produced. No other coins were struck in Ethiopia for over 700 years.

The foolish Hieronymus wanted to imitate his ill-chosen ally Hannibal. To do this he dropped the Hellenistic portraits of his family and went to a realistic portrait of himself with sideburns like Hannibal. History indicates that Rome would have been a better choice of ally.

The Bisaltae were an indigenous tribe who controlled the territory bounded by the River Axios on the west and the River Strymon on the east. After the Persian Wars they passed under the power, or at least the influence, of the great Macedonian king Alexander I (494-451 BC). The Bisaltic coinage, mostly known in impressively large denominations, employs types similar to those of Alexander, only executed with more vigor and less polish. Artistic considerations led earlier scholars to regard the Bisaltic coinage as very archaic, certainly prior to Alexander's coinage, but hoard evidence now places it in the second quarter of the fifth century.

- The excessively rare tetradrachm of the Carian dynast Mausolus features a dual representation of Zeus. On the obverse appears Zeus Osogoa, the principal god of Mausolus' new capital, Mylasa. The distinctive attributes of Zeus Osogoa are the eagle and a trident. A crab hangs from the trident in some depictions of the god, but is not apparent here. Zeus Osogoa is paired with Zeus Labraundios, who was to become the standard tetradrachm reverse type of Mausolus and his successors. The association of these two forms of Zeus recurs on silver coins of Mylasa in the second century B.C. (Akarca, Mylasa, 10) and again on Greek imperial bronze of the city struck under Marcus Aurelius (SNG von Aulock 8115).

The sestertius of Britannicus was rated by Cohen and Gnechci as the most valuable of all Roman bronze coins, including bronze medallions. Up to 1984 only 12 genuine specimens of this sestertius had been recorded, 9 with portrait left as our coin, and 3 with portrait right: see Id. M. von Kaenel, Britannicus, Agrippina Minor and Nero in Thrakien, SNR 63, 1984, pp. 129-133. Ours is a new specimen from the same dies as von Kaenel's no. 7, pl. 20. Mattingly in BMCRE II, p. IXXviii, regarded the sestertii of Britannicus as a commemorative issue produced by Titus in 80 AD, but von Kaenel shows that they were in fact probably struck in Thrace, perhaps at Perinthus, towards the end of Claudius' reign, along with very rare sestertii and middle bronzes, of Agrippina Jr. and of Nero as Caesar. At Rome itself no coins were struck for Britannicus, for he was pushed out of the succession when Claudius executed his mother Messalina, married Agrippina Jr., and finally adopted Agrippina's son Nero, who wa four years older than Britannicus. Nero alone was proclaimed emperor after Claudius' death in October 54 AD, and fearing Britannicus as a rival he had him poisoned four months later.

ANTIQUITIES

1192. Egyptian Green Schist Plate; Dynasty I, 2920-2770 BC. Plate of shallow form with gently sloping sides. The plate has a minor stress break near top which has been modernly reinforced. 11 3/4" Diameter, 29.85cm 4500
1193. Egyptian Wooden Head-Rest; Old Kingdom, 2575,2134 BC, or later. Head-rest made in three parts, of shallow curved form. On Egyptian beds you would relax with your head supported by a cushion that rested on a wooden stand such as this. Air could then circulate below your neck, and your head would be raised off the surface onto which insects or scorpions might crawl. 8" High, 20.32cm. 1000
1194. Egyptian Wooden Servant; Middle Kingdom, 2040-1783 BC. A servant of the After Life who existed in the form of a boat rower. The Egyptians believed that large groups of these manufactured dolls would come to life at the command of Osiris and do the required work for the over-seen Egyptian. Depending on your means, tombs could have hundreds of different figures caring out a lifetime of responsibilities. Traces of white paint still remain on the body, while the applied black paint within the eyes & hair is prevalent. 5" High, 12.70cm 1800
1195. Egyptian Wooden Cat; 26th Dynasty, Saite Period, 664-525 BC, or later. The cat who represented Bastet, the great cat goddess of the Egyptian Delta at Tell Bast. 5 1/4" High, 13.34cm 1000
1196. Egyptian Quartz Canopic Jar Lid; 26th Dynasty, Saite Period, 664-525 BC. In the practice of preserving soft tissues of the deceased, canopic jars were used, each containing a lid which represented the head of one of the Four Sons of Horus. The Son of Horus displayed by this lid, is Hapy, the baboon in whose care the lungs of the deceased were entrusted which he guarded with the assistance of the goddess Neith. The closest parallel in style & material was found at Giza and is now in the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. Small rejoined fragment at the bottom of the lid. 5 3/4" High, 14.61cm 3250
1197. Egyptian Faience Ushabti; New Kingdom, 1550-1070 BC. Ushabti light blue faience with applied black paint for detail. Translation: The Osiris, Pa-Hatep...The Justified. 3 1/2" High, 8.89cm 450
1198. Egyptian Faience Ushabti; 26th Dynasty, 664-525 BC, Saite Period. Upper portion of a beautifully styled ushabti. Great detail throughout piece from the facial features to the basket. Faience has a pale yellowish-green glaze. Restored. 7 1/2" High, 19.05cm 2500
1199. Egyptian Faience Ushabti; 26th Dynasty, 664-525 BC, Saite Period. Same fine detail and quality as lot #1198. Stands 7 1/2" High on mount, 19.05cm 1500
1200. Philistine Anthropoid Coffin Lid; 13th-12th Century BC. Lid reconstructed from large fragments. Near bottom is an added aramaic inscription done in late 1800's, which reads, "Ptah is great." 23" High x 19" Wide, 58.42cm x 48.26cm 4500
1201. Corinthian Plate; 6th Century BC. Rare figural plate displaying five Komast dancers each separated by groups of various sized rosettes with-in the tondo. The dancers are painted in red & black as are the rosettes over its buff surface. Geometric designs complete the piece in applied red within the center of tondo, outer rim and back side of plate. The komast dancers as displayed are defined as a member of the komos, a group which sings and dances after a symposium. Scholars have also linked the komast with Dionysiac ritual, with satyrs and satyr-plays, and with the pre-dramatic origins of tragedy & comedy. The dance of the komasts itself appears to have no supernatural, divine, or dramatic significance. 5" of rim replaced. 8 1/8" Diameter, 20.64cm See Color Photo 14000

1202. Corinthian Olpe; Late 7th Century BC. Olpe with spreading foot and flat handle with three applied ribs and rotelles at the rim, the body painted in five registers with friezes of grazing deer, striding felines and birds, details incised and painted in purple, brown & white. Rejoined from fragments. 18 1/4" High, 46.36cm See Color Photo 14500
1203. East Greek Pyxis; 625-600 BC. This unusual type was no doubt influenced by the strong vase industry in Corinth which so many others tried to duplicate. In the end, only the Attic were successful in borrowing Corinthian style and evolving to new great heights. This example is painted in purple & brown. The body consists of a single register of eight birds on one side, and seven on the other. Chipping on foot. 8" High x 11 1/4" Wide, 20.32cm x 28.58cm 1800
1204. Attic Black-Figure Lekythos; Mid-6th Century BC. The shoulder lekythos, a purely Attic vase type, was developed in the second quarter of the sixth century. On the shoulder, opposite the handle, is four nude boxers painted in black, with incised white and purple. The body renders a nude horseman flanked by nude runners, while a clothed herm looks on. Like the shoulder motif, the figures & horse are painted in black with incised white and purple. The motif of riders is a common one on mid-sixth century black-figure vases. Its popularity perhaps reflects the frequent patronage of potters by Hippeis, a class whose members possessed adequate wealth to maintain a horse and, hence, participate in warfare. Neck restored. 5 1/2" High, 13.97cm See Color Photo 4750
1206. Early Lucanian Bell Krater; Late 5th Century BC. Attributed by Professor A.D. Trendall to the Dolon Painter. The Dolon Painter is a member of the so-called Proto-Lucanian group. The painter's style consists of three-figure groups of Dionysos, maenad, & satyr so popular in this period of the mythical burlesque and flourishing theater in Southern Italy. In this particular scene the satyr has been subdued in his obtrusive behavior by his own reflection in a mirror held by the maenad. The maenad is draped in a short chiton and wears a sakkos on her head. To her right, a nude young Dionysos with a garment thrown over his left shoulder and arm holds a thyrsos. The Dionysos seems quite amused by the maenad's success of subduction over the satyr. Scene is enclosed in meander & laurel wreath patterns. The reverse consists of three draped male youths conversing. Wonderful detail with no restoration or chipping of any kind. 11 1/4" High x 12 1/2" Wide with handles, 28.58cm x 31.75cm See Color Photo 30000
1207. Apulian Red-Figure Lekanis; 330-325 BC. Attributed to the Darius Underworld Workshop. Lekanis decorated with a wonderfully painted hippocamp on either side of lid. Palmettes are displayed opposite each another, and a wave pattern finishes the rim. In The Fish-Tailed Monster in Greek and Etruscan Art. By Katherine Shepard, New York, 1940, she states, "The hippocamp may have been derived from the sea-horse, common in the Orient and in the Mediterranean waters...In Greece he is a personification, in all probability, of the waves of the sea in their swiftness." No restoration or chipping. 4 9/16" High x 8 1/2" Wide with handles, 11.59cm x 21.59cm See Color Photo 6500
1208. Campanian Black-Glazed Guttus; 3rd Century BC. Guttus has ribbed body, strainer top of five holes, & animal shaped spout in the form of a bat. No restoration. 3" High to handle x 4 1/2" Wide, 7.62cm x 11.43cm 800
1209. NO LOT
1210. Greek Sicilian Squat Lekythos; 4th Century BC. Lekythos renders a profiled head with tongue pattern on neck. No restoration. 4 1/2" High, 11.43cm 350
1211. Greek Sicilian Squat Trefoil Oinochoe; 4th Century BC. Oinochoe renders a profiled male's head. Chip at lip. 4" High, 10.16cm 350
1212. Pre-Columbian Mayan Cylinder; 550-950 AD. Cylinder displays colorful glyphs along with seated and standing figures. No restoration. Acquired from old US collection. 7 7/8" High, 20cm 1500
1213. Hellenistic Marble Head of Aphrodite. Aphrodite, the goddess of love & beauty, surpassed all the other goddesses, and hence received the prize of beauty from Paris. She like-wise had the power of granting beauty and invincible charms to others; whoever wore her magic girdle immediately became an object of love and desire. This particular specimen is fantastically sculpted with a fine surface. In this instance the sculptor has molded the facial features with fine realistic subtleties. Her hair is tightly pulled back with even waves finished in a tight neat bun. The eyes are left hollow true to Hellenistic form in which inlays were used to enhance the already remarkable art form. 7 3/4" High, 19.69cm See Color Photo 30000
1214. Roman Marble Zeus on Mount Ida; 1st Century AD. Mount Ida, a range of Mysia, in Asia Minor, was often celebrated in Classical mythology. The Rape of Ganymede, The Judgement of Paris, & the place where the gods watched the

- battles in the plain of Troy, are just a few of the events which took place at this famous site. Most importantly, Mount Ida was associated with the worship of Zeus, the greatest of the Olympian gods. As the story is known, Zeus was hidden at birth by his mother Rhea. Cronos, the youngest of the Titans and Zeus' father, swallowed his children immediately after birth. In anticipating Cronos' actions, Rhea, overwhelmed with the grief of losing her child, hid Zeus in a cave on Mount Ida. In place of his infant son Cronos was given a stone wrapped in cloth which he swallowed unaware of the deception. Zeus, who remained on Mount Ida, was cared for and protected by the nymphs Adrasteia and Ida until he was able to overthrow Cronos. This fine specimen depicts a scene of Zeus on Mount Ida. Zeus stands holding a wreath over his shoulders in front of the gigantic rock slab representing Mount Ida. 9" High, 22.86cm 7500
1215. Luristan Bronze Wild-Goat Finial; Middle to Late 2nd Millennium BC. Cast bronze. "Finials are believed to be small cult symbols, perhaps for domestic alters, and compared their function with that of household icons in Christian Europe...As it is possible to trace the direct descent of this motif in Elam, this seems the most likely source for its use in Luristan" (Catalogue Of The Ancient Persian Bronzes In The Ashmolean Museum. P.R.S. Moorey. Page 140). Bronze possesses a dark green patina with some incrustation. 11 1/4" High x 4 1/2" Wide, 28.58cm x 11.43cm 1200
1216. Geometric Bronze Bird; 750-700 BC. Waterbird with suspension loop and horizontal hole through body. Geometric birds of this type were usually hung from tree branches in sanctuaries. Beautiful light green patina. 3 1/2" Long, 8.89cm See Color Photo 2500
1217. Italo-Etruscan Bronze Gladiator; 5th-4th Century BC. Gladiator stands nude wearing a crescent helmet. The figure holds in front of him, a long sword & shield displaying a lion with sun rays. Light to dark green patina. Note: Bronzes Figures Antiques in Musee Bargoïn, #4. 4 1/4" High, 10.8cm 3200
1218. Greek Bronze Hydria; 400 BC. The hydria, which was used primarily as a water-container, also was used as ballot boxes and as receptacles for judges' names in the law courts. The bronze hydrias were favoured in cult practice and have survived as early as the 7th-6th centuries BC. A bronze hydria is supposed to have stood in front of Phidias' statue of Zeus at Olympia. This specimen renders a fine light green patina throughout. A truly beautiful piece with egg-and-dot pattern decorating rim. Rejoined from fragments. 14 1/4" High, 36.20cm See Color Photo 9500
1219. Phoenician Lead Weight; 4th-2nd Century BC. Casted lead which displays a ship's prow enclosed in an egg-and-dot pattern. See: The Phoenicia. Page 604 #119 for parallel. 3 3/8" High x 2" Wide, 8.57cm x 5.08cm 475
1220. Hellenistic Bronze Lamp. Egypt. Double spouted lamp with raised foot and large center filling hole. Reddish-brown to tan patina. 7 3/4" High, 19.69cm 1500
1221. Hellenistic Bronze Lamp. Egypt. Large four-spouted hanging lamp. Reddish-brown to tan patina. A small section of the original chain is patinated into the lamp. Spout restored. 9" from each spout, 22.86cm 2500
1222. Graeco-Roman Bronze Forearm & Hand. Left hand, molded in such a grip as to possibly have held a spear. Statues of emperors bearing spears were erected in life-size to monumental proportions. Light green patina with brownish-yellow incrustation. Note: Greek Etruscan & Roman Bronzes in the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, 1971. #147. 11 1/4" Long, 28.58cm 3000
1223. Roman Bronze Pin; 1st-2nd Century AD. Long rigid pin squared off near top, cross-hatching down side; finial renders an eagle mounted on the back of a second perched bird. 10" High, 25.40cm 700
1224. Roman Bronze Applique of Hermes; 1st-2nd Century AD. Applique which may have been the top of a lamp renders Hermes, the messenger of the gods. Black patina with areas of incrustation. 2 1/2" Diameter, 6.35cm 700
1225. Roman Bronze Oil Lamp; 2nd Century AD, Asia: Cnidus. Plain bronze lamp with concentric circles leading to filling-hole. Dark green patina. See: A Catalog of the Lamps in the British Museum. By D.M. Bailey. Lot #2875, Page 354, terracotta version. 2 3/4" Long, 6.99cm 450
1226. Roman Bronze Humped Bull; 2nd-3rd Century AD. Reclined bull which was most likely a furniture applique. Light to dark green patina. 2" Long, 5.08cm 1450
1227. Roman Bronze Alexander The Great in the Guise of Mars; Early 3rd Century AD. Although Alexander lived hundreds of years earlier, patronage to him in the form of statuettes was a popular theme. Alexander, who had a large cult following, was reputedly hailed as the son of Zeus, and supposedly raised on Olympus. "The religion of Alexander was expressed through the numerous heroic images that the Macedonian soldiers made as offerings in the sanctuaries of Alexander until Ptolemaic era." (Choix De Bronzes Et De Terres Cuites Des Collections De Janze Et Oppermann. By Jean Babelon) This cult appreciation extended far into the Roman period. In this example, Alexander is represented as Mars, the god of war, who stands wearing a tall Corinthian helmet. The Corinthian helmet which is associated with Mars has a wonderfully detailed crest. His out-stretched hand, which in most typical cases is disproportionate to the rest of the body, is molded perfectly to the body proportions. The hand is clutched to hold a spear which no longer exists. A statue such as this was found in Reims, and was part of the Greau Collection. Light green patina. 5 1/2" High, 13.97cm See Color Photo 23000
1228. Byzantine Bronze Reliquary Cross; 7th-12th Century AD. Side A: Virgin with

- Chrst flanked by saints. Side B: Chrst standing. 3" Long, 7.62cm 800
1229. Byzantine Bronze Reliquary Cross; 7th-12th Century AD. Cross renders a Christ on either side. Dark green patina. 3 1/4" Long, 8.26cm 800
1230. Mesopotamian Clay Slave Tablet; 1900-1700 BC. Clay tablet inscribed with thirty lines of script on obverse, bottom edge and reverse. The tablet is a legal document from Babylonia, in Old Babylonian cuneiform. It records the sale of a male slave, called Ili-tappê, purchased by Nanna-mansum from (presumably) husband and wife Iltani and Erishti-Shamash. It is recorded that the full price had been paid (though how much is not specified) and that the purchaser was satisfied with the deal. Five witnesses are named, each with their father's name. Translation conducted by Professor W.G. Lambert. Slave tablets are extremely rare. Restored. 3 5/8" Long x 2" Wide, 9.2cm x 5.08cm 7500
1231. Greek Terracotta Antefix of Io; 4th Century BC, South Italian Tarentum. Io, daughter of Inachus, the first king of Argos, was loved by Zeus. Fearing Her's irate jealousy, Zeus transformed Io into a white heifer to hide her from Hera. This specimen renders Io wearing earrings and sphendome, through which her cow horns are revealed. 5 1/2" High x 7 1/4" Wide, 13.97cm x 18.42cm 1650
1232. Greek Terracotta Painted Head; 400-300 BC. Substantial amount of original paint covers piece defining its features. Old collection ticket on reverse of piece indicating its purchase date by a Mr. Smith in October of 1916. 2 1/4" High, 5.72cm 800
1233. Roman Terracotta Bes Statue; Imperial Period, 2nd Century AD. Bes, the ancient Egyptian god portrayed by the Romans as a warrior. Exceptional large example. 15 1/2" High x 7" Wide, 39.37cm x 17.78cm 3500
1234. Russian Wood Icon; 1850. St. Nicholas The Miracle Worker with Jesus & Mother of God in Clouds. In the fields are St. John & St. Joseph. Painted in a variety of colors. Minor restoration. 17 5/8" High, 14 3/4" Wide x 44.77cm x 37.47cm. 1800
1236. Russian Wood Icon; Produced after 1850, Northern Russia. Icon renders a wonderfully painted Virgin & Child. The infant Jesus raises his hand in blessing, while Mary looks on. Over the Virgins left shoulder is the inscription, "The most blessed Virgin and Child". Icon accompanied by letter of authenticity from an icon museum in Germany. Painted in a variety of colors. 14 3/16" High x 11" Wide, 36.04cm x 27.94cm 1500
1237. Russian Wood Icon; 1850. Similar to Lot #1234, but with Archangel and St. Peter in fields. 7" High x 6" Wide, 17.78cm x 15.24cm See Color Photo 800
1238. Russian Wood Icon; 1850. St. Sergius standing along a river bank looking up to three heavenly winged beings who represent the Trinity. "St. Sergius was the great Russian exemplar of the hesychast spiritual tradition. He embodies the injunction in Psalm 46.10. 'Be still and know that I am God.' As the saint is represented in this icon he is a living expression of profound stillness and knowledge"(Doors of Perception. Page 120). In the background lies a wonderfully drawn monastery. Painted in a variety of colors. 6 3/8" High x 5 1/4" Wide, 16.19cm x 13.34cm See Color Photo 1000
1239. Russian Wood Icon; 1880. The resurrection of Christ with twelve feasts. Painted in a variety of colors. 12 1/8" High x 10 1/8" Wide, 30.80cm x 25.72cm 1400

Dear Friends;

This 86th Buy or Bid Sale with 1248 listings of coins and antiquities is our largest catalogue ever. We have consciously made an effort to serve our clients at all ends of the collecting rainbow, as our prices range from $35 to $55,000. Unlike our auction which we successfully completed, there is no buyer's fee, what you bid is what you pay, plus postage. While this catalogue is rather large, it only represents about 15% of our total inventory which in addition to more ancient coins and antiquities also includes foreign coins, autographs, United States coins, United States Paper Money, Foreign Bank Notes, Metals and Tokens. If there are things that you are looking for which are not represented in this catalogue, just asks us. There is a decent chance we can fill your needs. If you have any reasonable suggestions as to how we can improve our catalogues, please write to me directly. All suggestions are appreciated.
